The matriculation ceremony for 2007/2008 academic session for the newly-admitted undergraduate students of Covenant University, takes place on Friday, November 09, 2007.

This year's matriculation is the sixth in the series and 1,716 students will be admitted into various degree programmes in the University's three Colleges of Business & Social Sciences, Human Development and Science & Technology.

According to information released by the University authorities, the Vice Chancellor, Professor Aize Obayan and other principal officers, will officiate at the ceremony while dignitaries from government, public and private sectors, academia, churches and particularly parents and guardians of the matriculant are expected to grace the occasion.

The event will take place at the University Chapel by 9.30am.

Covenant University, also known as Hebron -the birthplace of kings and queen, is one of the leading private universities in Nigeria and it is committed to raising a new generation of leaders for the continent of Africa. The University, which clocked 5 years on October 21, 2007, recently graduated its second set of students in a well-attended ceremony dubbed, 'The Released of Eagles 2007.'
